Keep Your Representatives Sales-Ready With Document Repository

Non-compliance due to missing documentation is one of the top reasons reps are denied access to healthcare facilities.[1] Which, in turn, can lead to lost sales and missed opportunities.

Document Repository—a centralized location where you can monitor, manage and track all hospital-required compliance documents—can help you take charge of your credentialing compliance process. And it has big benefits for administrators and reps alike.

Benefits for Vendor Organizations

- Review most recent updates to compliance status, 24/7
- Upload and proactively identify missing documentation
- Store company-specific information in the custom resource center
- Assist reps with credentialing requirements utilizing GHX tools
- See fewer missed or canceled appointments due to inadequate documentation
- Increase efficiency and time for sales opportunities

With different rules, requirements and deadlines for credentialing documentation, there are a lot of details for vendors to juggle, especially when managing reps across multiple states or health systems. To help with this, Document Repository offers:

Centralized Storage
Easily store, manage and access credentialing documents in one place.

Streamlined Credentialing Processes
You can reduce manual checks, paper trails and other time-consuming steps typically associated with credentialing processes across the organization.

Proactive Credentialing Management
Automation helps manage requirement expirations to decrease gaps in compliance.

Simplified Doc Storage to Help Improve Rep Compliance

To learn more about Document Repository or the full suite of GHX Vendormate credentialing solutions, visit ghx.com

GHX
VENDORMATE