POSITION YOURSELF AS A VENDOR OF CHOICE

Orders in the healthcare industry are complex. Healthcare providers increasingly rely on digital procurement solutions and expect their suppliers to support electronic data interchange (EDI) to process transactions quickly and easily.

For small and medium-sized companies, this is often associated with high investments in IT infrastructure. Instead of benefiting from process automation, many suppliers still spend a lot of time processing orders and invoices manually.

Supply chain automation without a major IT investment

Position yourself as a vendor of choice by putting WebDirect to work for you. Using internet access and a simple registration process, the solution enables your customers to work with you electronically. Customers send orders directly to you from their ERP system, and you can view and respond to them using a simple, easy-to-use web interface.

WebDirect is a simple and affordable solution for doing business electronically with your customers. You receive electronic orders from your customers in a centralised system and create and send electronic invoices simply at the touch of a button.
